The ELA and ENL Connection: Research-Based Practices that Support ELLs in the Integrated Classroom

ELL Scaffolds for NYS CCLS Curriculum
Grade 1, Module 1: Domain (Unit) 8
Animals and Habitats: Animals of the Arctic
This unit is an in-depth study of animals and their habitats. The thematic nature of the unit allows students and teacher to make meaningful connections between content areas and literacy.

The L.I. RBE-RN’s adaptation of this unit has similar components but approaches the topics covered through instructional approaches and methodologies appropriate for second language learners.
Animals of the Arctic

Purpose
• Familiarize students with the features of non-fiction text
• Actively teach and model comprehension strategies L2 learners can use to access high level non-fiction content and text
• Apply the strategies learned through “Text Mapping” to other texts and media
• Gather information for culminating writing activity

Activities
• Individual students (or small groups) will read selected books and websites about animals that live in the Arctic habitat
• Students will complete a “Scavenger Hunt” graphic organizer as they read

Product
• Students will produce authentic writing (flip book or magazine article) differentiated to student’s individual proficiency levels and/or needs.

Resources
A selection of non-fiction books about the Arctic Habitat

Digital Resources for Home or Library – Bookmarking Sites

• By providing links to material that will be discussed in class, as well as other related topics, we provide ELLs with a slight edge, helping them build background knowledge and prepare for more challenging academic tasks.

• Bookmarking sites offer a way to share links to teacher provided material on information that will be discussed and researched in class.

• One such site is Symbaloo. All of the links and materials referenced in today’s session are available at:

“Text Mapping Activity”

Reading Standards for Informational Text

I can use text features (e.g., captions, bold print, subheadings, glossaries, indexes, electronic menus, icons) to locate key facts or information in a text quickly and easily. (RI.2.5)

| Grade 2 (RI.2.5) Know and use various text features (e.g., captions, bold print, subheadings, glossaries, indexes, electronic menus, icons) to locate key facts or information in a text efficiently. | Use Text Features to Find Information | • Use words and phrases to identify different text features (e.g., the headings tell you what the section will cover; the table of contents is found in the beginning of the book; electronic menus are at the top of the screen).
• Use words and phrases to describe how text features are used (e.g., headings indicate the main idea of the section of the text; glossaries allow the reader to search for a definition of a key word; an icon is a picture in a computer). |
Pre-reading Activity

• Explicit and concrete process which makes text more “manageable”
• Instills confidence with complex text for L2 learners

Aid to Comprehension

• Provides opportunity to model reading comprehension strategies, study skills, and note-taking skills
  – Low-tech yet interactive
  – Skills are transferable to approaching text in all reading contexts and contents

Did you know... when a chunk of ice breaks off a glacier it is called “calving”?

Much of the Arctic Circle is made up of glaciers. A glacier is a large river of ice. An iceberg is part of a glacier that breaks off and floats in the water. When that chunk of ice floats in the water it is called an iceberg.

There are few stores in the arctic. Many people must hunt and fish for food.

Arctic animals need one another to eat. If one kind of animal dies, it causes other animals to go hungry. This food web shows how animals need one another in the tundra.

Arctic Circle: Most northern area on Earth.
Glacier: A large, slow moving river of ice
Iceberg: A chunk of ice that has broken off of a glacier and is floating in water.
Igloo: A house made out of snow blocks.
Inuit: Native people from the Arctic Circle.
Migrate: When large groups of animals move from one place to another.
Parka: A warm coat made of animal fur.
Snowshoe: A special shoe used for walking on top of snow.
Tundra: An area with small plants, shrubs, and trees.

“Non-Fiction Text Scavenger Hunt”

At this point, students will choose an animal to research from available resources (e.g., books, websites) and conduct a “Non-Fiction Text Scavenger Hunt”. Depending on their proficiency levels, students can complete this activity independently, in independent small groups or in guided groups with the teacher.

Animals of the Arctic Habitat: Differentiating the Product

- Students at all levels will be required to produce authentic, non-fiction writing differentiated to students’ individual proficiency levels and/or needs.
- They will receive checklists containing the expectations of the final product.
- Students at lower proficiency levels will receive checklists for each product so that they can demonstrate the requirements at a higher proficiency if they so choose.

Animals of the Arctic Habitat
Emerging/Transitioning Level Writing Activity

• Students write a flip book incorporating:
  – Features of non-fiction text (e.g., photos with captions, headings/sub-headings, glossary)
  – Paragraphs using descriptive writing structures from pre-writing activity
  – Facts documented during prior activities.
Arctic Habitat Magazine Article
Expanding/Commanding Pre-Writing Activity

Students will write a magazine article about one or more aspects of the Arctic Habitat. The article will include:

– Features of non-fiction text (e.g., photos with captions, headings, glossary)
– Vocabulary related to the Arctic habitat
– Additional relevant facts learned during readings

• A graphic organizer will be provided to help students organize their ideas and information

  - seal
  - patient

Illustration

Text Feature(s)

- Breathing Hole
- Ice
- Seal

Facts

1. Polar bears are very patient hunters. They wait near breathing holes to catch ringed seals.

2. Polar bears are hunters. They prey on ringed seals. There are a lot of ringed seals for polar bears to hunt.

3. Polar bears must live near ice to hunt ringed seals. Some polar bears follow the ice when it moves so they can still hunt for seals.
